The purpose of Probation and Community Intervention Services is to increase public safety by reducing juvenile delinquency through effective intervention and case management services to youth on diversion, probation, and post-commitment supervision. Probation and Community Intervention promotes accountability using restorative sanctions, supervision, and treatment services that strengthen families and help support youth in becoming responsible citizens.

During FY 2018-19, more than 42,000 youth were served by Probation and Community Intervention programs.

Services described in this chapter are those provided to youth after adjudication is rendered or deferred. Probation intake services are described in the Delinquency Intake chapter.

Diversion services are non-judicial alternatives used to keep less serious offenders from being processed through the traditional juvenile justice system. These services are intended to intervene at an early stage of delinquency, decrease subsequent offenses during and after participation in the programs, and provide for an array of services to youth.

Probation supervision is ordered by the court in cases involving a youth who has been determined to have committed a delinquent act. While on probation, the youth's activities are restricted as the court directs. In many cases, youth are required to participate in services targeting identified needs and risk factors as a condition of their probation. Juvenile probation officers (JPO) are employees of the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) who serve as the primary case manager for the purpose of managing, coordinating, and monitoring the youth's participation in services and sanctions.

In addition to case management services, the JPO is responsible for the intake of youth upon arrest. Intake services begin when the youth or the youth's case paperwork is delivered to the Department. Services provided by JPOs at intake include: a delinquency history records search, screening for detention placement, a suicide risk assessment, a risk and needs assessment, and a mental health and substance-abuse screening. After this initial contact with the youth, the JPO interviews the youth, his or her parents, the arresting officer, the victim(s), and other parties in order to make a recommendation to the state attorney regarding the most appropriate handling of the case.

Juvenile probation officers have two main functions: intake services and supervision of youth.

Probation day treatment programs are facility-based and serve youth on probation in need of a higher level of supervision and service. Day treatment programs provide or oversee delinquency interventions, recreation, vocational, and educational services. Weekends are used for structured activities and mentoring opportunities. Services also include life skills training and outings that offer youth the opportunity to apply life skills in the community. In addition, individual, family, and small group counseling may be provided. JPOs and program case managers monitor progress of the youth at home, school, and work, as well as the youths' compliance with court sanctions. All day treatment programs are operated by DJJ contracted providers.

Post-commitment services are provided to youth released from residential commitment programs. These programs assist with transitioning youth back into their homes and communities. Youth can either be placed on conditional release or post-commitment probation status. Programs include day treatment services, contracted community supervision services, state-operated community supervision services, and vocational training.

Day treatment programs also serve youth on post-commitment supervision. Services for post-commitment youth are similar to those provided to youth at the "front end" of the system. Activities include counseling, recreation, and community service projects. Community supervision services involve a JPO and the case manager from the day treatment program monitoring the youth's progress at home, school, or work and compliance with other sanctions (curfew, community service, and restitution). Although length of supervision varies, most day treatment programs are designed to last three to seven months.

Post-commitment probation (PCP) is a statutorily defined probationary status for juveniles released from DJJ custody but over whom the juvenile court has retained jurisdiction. Similar to probation, the objectives of PCP are to monitor behavior, connect youth with services appropriate to their needs, and support them in adopting a crime-free lifestyle. The court must approve termination from PCP. This report includes outcomes for post-commitment transition programs.

A key component of the Department's transformation of the juvenile justice service continuum is increasing transition services via additional contracted, community-based providers. Services such as vocational and educational assistance, transitional housing, transportation assistance, and mentoring are provided or facilitated by transition programs.

Redirection was established by the Florida Legislature in order to provide community-based alternatives in lieu of residential commitment for youth that meet certain criteria. Redirection is an alternative option that can be used by JPOs as a graduated sanction for lack of compliance with the YES Plan. Redirection services are offered in all of Florida's twenty judicial circuits and allow the youth and their family to participate in evidence-based therapy in the community instead of the youth being placed in a residential facility. Redirection services are also provided to some post-commitment youth and their families. Redirection treatment modalities include Multi-Systemic Therapy (MST), Functional Family Therapy (FFT), and Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (CBT). Probation and post-commitment youth are reported separately in the outcome tables.

Probation enhancement services (PES) are additional services a child under the Department's supervision may be referred to as an overlay service in addition to standard supervision. When in a PES placement, the child is also simultaneously either in a probation, post-commitment probation, probation day treatment, or conditional release status. These services may include mental health counseling, substance abuse counseling, mentoring, career and education enhancement activities, parent and youth support groups/counseling, and respite services. These placements often consist of short-term programs that target a youth's specific needs. The youth's JPO continues to monitor progress while he or she participates in PES.

Profile of Youth

The following tables display demographic data taken from DJJ's Juvenile Justice Information System (JJIS). Profile data are based on the number of youth, unduplicated, who were provided Probation and Community Intervention services during FY 2018-19.

Outcome Evaluation Performance

The following tables display the Probation and Community Intervention (PCI) Program Profile Summaries and Outcomes, which include total releases, the percentage of youth adjudicated for any offenses committed during supervision (ODS), number of completions, completion rates, demographic characteristics, average length of stay, and recidivism rates.

During FY 2017-18, there were 30,576 releases and 23,605 completions from the PCI program area. The rates of any offense during supervision ranged from a high of 47% of the releases from provider-operated probation to a low of 6% from IDDS/JDAP or Diversion. Completion rates varied from a high of 85% for diversion services to a low of 26% for provider-operated probation.

Given that PCI programs serve a wide variety of youth, from those with no prior offense history to those who have been committed, the substantial differences in the average prior seriousness indices observed across the program areas are as expected. Youth completing diversion programs had the least serious delinquency histories, while youth who were previously committed and who participated in post-commitment services had the most serious delinquency histories. Youth completing intensive programs such as day treatment and Redirection had more serious histories than youth completing general state-operated probation.

<sup>2</sup>N = number of cases. Italics indicate the program completed fewer than 15 youth; therefore, care should be taken in interpreting these data.

<sup>3</sup>These programs have closed, changed providers, or have had a structural programmatic change since the time period of the evaluation.

<sup>3</sup>These programs have closed, changed providers, or have had a structural programmatic change since the time period of the evaluation.

<sup>3</sup>These programs have closed, changed providers, or have had a structural programmatic change since the time period of the evaluation.
